Fantasy World is inhabited by classic fairytale characters. Yet time has passed and people have changed. Some, like the wolf, continue to be alone; others are married; and others, like Snow White, are now separated... Some have children, others don't... The same goes for their occupations: the seven dwarfs still work in the mine, whilst others have different jobs and others have retired. Indeed, time has passed and everyone has aged... Everyone, that is, except for the witch who could not be any older than she already is. Yet that doesn't mean their society has come to a halt. They've progressed in their own way, as they can now create bizarre machines and other ingenious objects.
